IFC Gets Tough, Stops TEP Social Functions, Fines AEPi

by Roger Stuart II

THE INTERFRATERNITY Council got tough last week—placing social probation and a $25 fine on one fraternity and a $50 fine on another—for illegal rushing.

In an eight-and-a-half hour marathon session, the Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity was found guilty of three offenses and Alpha Epsilon Pi of two.

TEP appealed the IFC-imposed punishment to the Student Life Committee; it was amended. TEP thought this even more severe and appealed to the Committee again—this time to rescind its ruling in favor of the original IFC punishment.

How It Happened

This is how the events of last week shaped up:

TEP held an illegal rush party off campus, violated the maximum number clause of four or more fraternity men to the same number of rushees in the 823 Restaurant and violated the IFC clause against rushing in the dormitories.

IFC Jurisprudence Chairman Bill Halter witnessed the first violation in a northwest Washington home of one of the TEP brothers when notified of its whereabouts. AEPi reported the other two grievances filed against TEP.

AEPi was found guilty of violating the dormitory rushing clause and of the number's clause in a football game on the Elipse. Grievances were filed against this fraternity by TEP.

Insufficient Evidence

Several other violations filed against both fraternities were thrown out by the IFC because of insufficient evidence.

AEPi was assessed a $25 fine for each of its violations. TEP was given a suspended sentence for its violation in the 823 Restaurant because "the intent to violate the rules was not clearly evident," the IFC determined, but was fined $25 for its rushing in the dormitories.

For its illegal party in the private home of one of its brothers,

TEP was placed on social probation for one semester. Social probation as defined by the IFC will mean "no social parties at any time during the semester, no participation in intramural athletics and no participation in interfraternity competitions."

It was this punishment for one offense that caused TEP to appeal to the Student Life Committee.

"Unfair And Unjust"

TEP President Al Capp appealed the stringency of the ruling as "unfair and unjust." He said that his fraternity would die on campus unless it was allowed to hold rush parties at assigned times at the fraternity house. For if no rushee saw the house, he said, none would pledge and his fraternity would be unable to meet its financial obligations.

Besides, he said, "I can see no reason why one obvious offense by one fraternity should be judged more serious than the obvious offense of another fraternity."

IFC President Charlie Mays answered back that the ruling was necessary because the IFC had rewritten its rush rules last spring "with a desire to have a clean rush, to secure equality in rushing practices, to strengthen the IFC in policing its own backyard and to prevent unfair advantages from occurring in the future."

Furthermore, he said, the TEP violation was perpetrated "in full realization that the IFC had definite plans this year to enforce these rules." Thus, "it was an affront to the council" which demanded "drastic and harsh measures."

As for the harshness of the punishment causing the death of (Continued on Page 7)

University Prof Needs Babies, Tests Their Depth Perception

by Roger Stuart II

• WHY DO BABIES crawl off beds or fall down stairs? Is it because they lose their balance or are simply unable to perceive the void?

Dr. Richard D. Walk, assistant professor of psychology, is trying to find out. But he needs more babies.

What method does he use to do his testing? It's really quite simple.

He uses an apparatus called "the visual cliff" which is nothing more than a large wooden box with heavy plate glass set ten inches down into it. Immediately under half of the glass there is a red and white checked pattern and under the other half an identical pattern set deeper than the first half.

Babies are put onto the glass in two situations—one in which the deep end has this pattern and the other in which the pattern is taken away.

So far Dr. Walk has tested 70 little tikes between the ages of 7 and 13 months. Right now he would like to test another 25 before he ends his investigation and interprets the results.

The results with the first 70 babies have shown that when the pattern of red and white checks was set at 40 inches below the glass, 40 or 50 percent of the youngsters crawled onto the deep end.

Since raising the pattern to the level of a bed however, which is 20 inches, the babies have reacted in pretty much the same way.

Threshold A Question

"Where is the threshold?" That's the question he's asking now. Or in other words how high must the pattern be set before most youngsters will venture out over the void.

Thus far, Dr. Walk feels that there is proof that the babies just will not go onto the deep end un-

Two Weeks To Go

Combo Sales Break All Previous Highs

• CAMPUS COMBO SURPASSED all previous records in the first three days of sales.

By the close of registration Saturday, 988 students had purchased Campus Combo books.

This figure not only tops last year's registration sales record of 774, but it also surpasses the all-time total sales volume of 980 set in the fall of 1958.

Campaign Goal

"In addition to these two records," according to Co-chairmen Jack Bailer and Joe Iseman, "we have already broken all previous sales records, but we still have several days left in which to crack the one thousand mark and achieve our campaign goal of 1100 sales."

"This we should have no trouble in doing," said Mr. Iseman and Mr. Bailer. "Last year, over 100 Combos were sold during the two weeks after registration, and the year before nearly 200 sales were made in the same period."

"Not only are there many students who decided to wait until school started to buy a Combo, but there are also quite a few purchases yet to be made in the interfraternity and intersorority competition," they said.

Combo Prizes

The co-chairmen were referring here to the fact that each year trophies are awarded to both the fraternity and sorority which have the highest percentage participation of Campus Combo purchases among their numbers. The presentation is traditionally made at the Homecoming dance.

Mr. Bailer and Mr. Iseman explained that enough Campus Combos have already been sold to provide member activities with sufficient working capital and assured attendance to guarantee their financial and social success.

"This means," they say, "that all those who have yet to buy a Combo may one, still benefit from these activities; two, help to make them even more elaborate and successful than they already will be; and three, do so at the same 50 percent reduction offered last week."

Combo's Package

Included in Campus Combo's package deal are tickets to nine all-University activities: the Charlie Byrd Concert, Homecoming dance, Colonial Bosters, University Follies, Dance concert and Colonial Cruise, plus a reduction on the second ticket bought by a Combo holder to each of the two dances.

If purchased separately during the school year, tickets for these activities would cost the student a total of $21.50. He has the opportunity, however, to save 50 percent by getting Campus Combo now for only $10.75.

"Another first this year is the fact that a reduction as high as 50 percent is offered to students purchasing the Combo," Co-chairmen Bailer and Iseman said.

For the next two weeks of classes, Campus Combo will be on sale in the Student Union lobby during lunch hours and in the evenings from 5:00 to 6:00.

Students may either pay cash or write a personal check for the amount of the Combo. Next week's HATCHET will report on whether or not the campaign goal for this year was achieved.

Advance Ticket Sale Begins Monday For Byrd Concert

• TICKETS FOR THE Charlie Byrd concert, coming to Lisner auditorium Oct. 14, will go on sale next Monday.

"We urge all students who have Campus Combo, as well as those paying cash, to obtain their tickets early, in order to be sure of getting good seats," says Jack Bailer, originator and chairman of the concert.

"Actually, for this kind of show, there are no 'bad' seats in the entire auditorium and they will all be selling for $1.50," Mr. Bailer says, "therefore anyone wishing to sit close to the front will merely have to be among the first to turn in his Combo, or purchase a cash ticket."

Mr. Bailer also pointed out that advance tickets would be made available and "thoroughly publicized" at every other local university campus.

Area Schools Invited

Although the first 1200 tickets will be held for GW students, Mr. Bailer announced that on Tuesday, Oct. 11, "if there are any of these tickets which have not yet been sold, area schools will be allowed to purchase them, in addition to the others which they already will have received."

"Students here will still have the opportunity to get tickets, right up to concert time, but for the last three days before the concert they will be competing with other area students for seats."

Charlie Byrd is the internationally known jazz and classical guitarist who, two years ago, was chosen by music critics as the number one new guitar star.

SC Book Exchange Handles 200 Texts During First Week

• THE NEW STUDENT Book Exchange has been termed an "outstanding success" by Co-chairman Cameron Pippitt. Over 200 textbooks changed hands during the first two days of the program.

"Our sales have shown a great student interest in reasonably priced books," Pippitt said. The other co-chairmen, Pete Wasilewski and Stan Remsburg, felt equally enthusiastic about the initial results of the Student Council sponsored project.

Student Council President Dave Aaronson also noted the success of the Exchange. "I think it's the best thing the Student Council has done for the student body during my time. The amount of students who have been served has exceeded our expectations."

"The excellent job done by the co-chairmen is an example of student responsibility in planning, organizing and executing needed programs," he continued.

Runs Three Weeks

The Exchange, run on a consignment basis, will operate for three weeks at the beginning of each semester. No books will be accepted after tomorrow, although the Exchange will remain open until Oct. 7.

Some problems did arise. Students were annoyed that they could not be paid immediately. It will take at least two weeks before checks for the books can be sent out. Plans will be presented to remedy this at tomorrow's Council meeting.

"Co-operation with the Book Store, all things considered, has been fair," Mr. Pippitt said. "They gave us a book list, but we were unable to procure the prices."

The Exchange is now operating as a committee of the Student Council. Member's hopes are that in the future it can develop into a co-chairmanship position.

Fulbright Awards Available To Seniors

• FULBRIGHT AWARDS for a year's study in a foreign country, at the expense of the United States are available to qualified college students.

Senior candidates can seek information about the program from Professor A. T. Delbert, professor emeritus of romance languages, the University's Fulbright advisor.

The program is designed to enable American students to pursue graduate study abroad for a year in a country of the student's choice.

High scholarship and evidence of well-roundedness shown by participation in outside activities are prerequisites. Emphasis is placed on choosing students who have a particular project or goal in mind, and who would be the best good-will ambassadors for the United States, Professor Delbert said.

That part of his research was completed before he joined the University's faculty last year. And his research up until that time was covered in the April issue of Scientific American magazine and in one of the June issues of Life magazine.

Turtles he found were born with the "worst perception of depth," while pigs and goats have the most remarked reaction to it. "They won't go out on the deep end no matter what," he says.

Turtles

Turtles don't need the depth perception because of their build and protection, he says, while the pigs and goats have the most to lose if they don't have it.

Dr. Walk anticipates the completion of his study in about a year. After he finishes with the human babies he is going to test some more animals.

If anyone is interested in having Dr. Walk test his baby, the doctor will pay three dollars to help him determine how well babies can see depth by taking part in a single experiment.

Dr. Walk can be contacted at FEderal 8-0250, Extension 587 between 9:00 am and 1:00 pm week days.

YRs And YDs Plan To Poll Students' Campaign Choice

• GEORGE WASHINGTON STUDENTS will be polled on their choice for President of the United States as part of the election-year program of the Young Republicans and the Young Democrats.

The poll will be in the form of ballots, according to Alan May, Young Republicans' president, and Bart Crivella, president of the Young Democrats. The results will appear in the HATCHET and the metropolitan papers.

The date and location of balloting will be announced later.

The program of the Young Republicans and Young Democrats is "designed to build the clubs to full campaign strength," Mr. Crivella said.

Organizational meetings will be held on Oct. 12 at 12 pm. The Young Republicans will meet in Government 1 and the Young Democrats will meet in Government 2.

The clubs will hold a joint viewing of the second Nixon-Kennedy debate Oct. 13. A reception will follow on the second floor of the Student Union.

During the presidential campaign, club members will do volunteer work in either the National Nixon-Lodge Club or the Volunteers for Kennedy Headquarters.

"We hope to gain valuable experience from our work in the local Maryland and Virginia congressional campaigns, as well as in the national campaigns," said Mr. May.

The two political clubs invite all interested students to join this election-year program.

Council Hits Campaign Bigotry, Strengthens Publicity Policies

Nine Okay Act; Two Remain Silent

by Stan Remsburg

• THE MEMBERS OF the Student Council last Wednesday night denounced the practice of voting for or against a candidate because of religious prejudice.

As amended, President David Aaronson's resolution states: "To vote for or against a candidate on the basis of his religious faith is a sinister betrayal of American democracy." After discussion the members passed the resolution by a vote of 9 to 0, with one member and a proxy abstaining.

Mr. Aaronson emphasized that in passing the proposal the Council in no way spoke for either the students, the faculty, or the administration. Nor should it be construed as an endorsement of any presidential candidate.

To prevent misinterpretation of their intention, the Councilmen amended the original proposal. The introduction now reads: "We, the members of the Student Council of the George Washington University, speaking as individuals and not in our representative capacities..."

Past Councils have refused to comment upon national issues. However, Mr. Aaronson campaigned with the belief that the Council should voice its opinion. On Wednesday he asserted that the members should consider such issues and that to let these problems slip by would not be fulfilling their duties.

The original proposal dealt with the Catholic faith. The Council rejected such mention and substituted the wording "religious faith" in all necessary places. This, they felt, would widen the scope of the resolution.

Just before the vote, Richard Fischman objected to the use of "sinister betrayal." Mr. Aaronson explained that "sinister" meant "evil." Mr. Fischman stated that such voting often stems from ignorance and not from specific evil intent. He requested that the wording be changed.

When the vote came, Mr. Fischman voted for the resolution but asked to have his objection to the use of "sinister" recorded. Stating that such a reservation would set a dangerous precedent, Mr. Aaronson ruled the recording out of order. Mr. Fischman then abstained from voting. The proxy for the activities director also abstained.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to universities throughout the United States urging them to adopt similar proposals. The "Washington Post" and the "Evening Star" also carried stories concerning this action in last Friday's editions.

Members Clarify Scope Of Control

• THE STUDENT COUNCIL last week re-asserted control over its own publicity.

The Council appointed Roger Stuart, the vice president, to inform the Business Office and other organizations that from now on the Student Council will manage its own advertising.

Following the suggestion made by the Junior College representative, John Day, the Council will purchase a rubber stamp. The publicity director will then mark and censure the Council's publicity.

In the past, confusion existed over the control of Student Council posters and bulletins. This year the Business Office removed several signs advertising the Student Book Exchange and Campus Combo because the signs did not bear that office's approval.

David Aaronson, the President of the Council, asserted that the Business Office should not censure Student Council publicity. The Articles of Student Government, he stated, gave the Council this power.

The members asserted that use of this stamp would not extend (Continued on Page 7)

Phi Sig To Build On G St.; Completion Slated For '61

• PHI SIGMA KAPPA will occupy a new house next fall.

Last July the fraternity sold its DuPont Circle "Embassy," which had been their home for 12 years. Temporarily they are housed at 815 21 st., but "we hope to be in our new home by the fall of '61," said John Prokop, president of the organization.

Plans for the new house to be located at 2032-2034 G st., have been completed and construction is scheduled for early in the spring of '61.

The house, a three-story structure, will contain a living room, ballroom, dining room, two bathrooms and an all-electric kitchen on the first floor.

A recreation room will be in the basement plus a dancing room, television room, bar and dry storage room. The second floor will provide living quarters for 16 brothers, bathroom facilities and a combination library-chapter room.

The third floor will house an additional 16 men, bathroom facilities and study hall.

"We are moving down on campus to give all brothers—both those living in the house and out—more adequate use of the fraternity's facilities. Another reason is a location closer to the other fraternities and fraternity life," a fraternity spokesman said.

AEPI Chapter Tops All Others

• ALPHA EPSILON PI's local chapter, Kappa Deuteron, was selected as the outstanding chapter from among 71 in the nation at the fraternity's national convention in Miami this summer.

Stanley Heckman, AEPI's president, was picked as the outstanding delegate to the convention. Mr. Heckman received his award for outstanding attendance and contributions on rush programs, scholastic achievements, performance in individual forums, seminars and in the fraternity's Supreme Council which legislates for the national organization.

Journalistically Speaking

• THERE IS A well known geometrical theorem that the whole is equal to the sum of its parts. Psychology has reinterpreted this axiom to read, the whole is greater than the sum of its parts. The latter theory, we feel, is far more descriptive of this year's freshman Handbook than the former.

The Handbook is published to inform new students of the organizations that they may join and of the various activities which have become traditions on the campus. As in the past, this year's Handbook has fulfilled the dual purpose outlined above. It has been both informative and brief—giving important facts and eliminating the unnecessary details.

Journalistically speaking, however, the 1960-61 Handbook leaves much to be desired. Misspelled words and incorrect facts are frequent within its pages. Occasional typographical errors are understandable in any publication, however, wrong or outdated details are never excusable.

It takes an editor and his staff little time and effort to check out a fact. We hope that next year's staff will spend more time verifying its material and proofreading the copy. As evidenced by this year's product, the above suggestions will greatly improve the overall appearance of next year's Handbook.

Certainly the Handbook editor is given ample time and opportunity to organize a staff and to begin working. The HATCHET, which is published weekly and which is not exempt from mistakes, has fewer errors than the Handbook, which the editor had all summer to prepare.

Population, Politics Impede North African Development

• LITTLE ECONOMIC AND social betterment are in sight for North African countries unless they subdue over-population and achieve political stability.

That's University Professor Richard W. Stephens' evaluation of population factors in North Africa as stated in the fifth population study put out by the University's Population Research Project.

In this area, "one of the most rapidly growing in the world," (Sociologist Stephens estimates a five-million increase in population in the next three years) "illiteracy, lack of capital, poor health, unskilled manpower and inadequate resources are going to be unusually difficult to overcome."

All of the North African states are "underdeveloped," meaning inferior to the western world, Dr. Stephens says, but there is a great variance among them and their development will depend upon a "whole complex of unpredictable circumstances."

After years of colonial rule North Africans have developed strong anti-colonialist feelings and fears of foreign influence. "Unfortunately," states Dr. Stephens, "the tide of feeling against outside influence is so strong," both against the West and the Communist bloc nations, "that it may act as a deterrent to economic development."

This feeling, he says, while understandable from their point of view, will impede their development. For the West has supplied them with nearly all of the advances, managerial and technical, which have been made.

But, by asserting their nationalism to extremes they stand to lose the required means—finance, equipment and technical skills—necessary for further and more rapid improvement.

He views as likely within the next few decades that the peoples of North Africa are going to be faced with the prospect of extreme material deprivation. And it is equally possible that in order to meet their economic needs, they will be under pressure to stimulate further growth and co-operation among the Arab nations in this region and in the Near East.

University Profs Take A Look At New United Nations' Crisis

by Margaret Walter

• THE UNITED NATIONS this month is the scene of the greatest gathering of world politicians since its first meeting in 1945.

The past 15 years of U.N. activity contain a record of rallying world resistance to aggression in the Republic of Korea, solving the Suez Canal crisis and more recently taming the Congo's independence troubles.

During those 15 years and especially during the last few months, U.N. membership swelled to 96-member nations and is expected to increase with every new independent nation of Africa.

Base Of Negotiation

With the collapse of the Summit conference the U.N. has become the primary means of negotiation between East and West. Its neutral ground provides a safe base for all foreign delegations and their right to complain to the U.N. General Assembly.

To find an answer to the question of where the new prominence of the United Nations will lead in the cold war, the HATCHET sought the opinions of Dean Elmer L. Kayser of the history department and of Professor H. R. Ludden of the political science department.

According to Professor Ludden, "The United Nations cannot become a sovereign authority or a substitute for national governments. The factors and conditions necessary for a world government cannot be brought into existence for many centuries."

Nationalistic Trend

Dean Kayser's opinion concurs with Professor Ludden's insofar as there will be no world government in the foreseeable future. Dean Kayser believes, "There is a trend away from centralized administration to a nationalistic policy," of which Africa's young and vigorous independent nations are good examples.

But even without a world government Professor Ludden believes, "The complexities of the present world are such that it would be impossible to continue international relations without such a general international organization as the U.N."

He thinks it quite some time, however, before national government will learn to use such an organization effectively.

Present Functions

The Congo, according to Dean Kayser, has offered the United Nations the unique opportunity to perform its primary function of aid to underdeveloped areas, and he believes, the organization has shown to what extent its work would be effective.

Professor Ludden agrees that without the United Nations, "There would probably have been complete internal anarchy and quite possibly a build-up of the international situation tending towards a major power conflict."

The neutral ground of the United Nations has made it possible for democratic and communist countries to meet and to discuss grievances without fear of reprisal. This neutral ground has also afforded a good propaganda opportunity to Nikita Khrushchev, which he thoroughly exploited in his address to the General Assembly last Friday.

K's Plea To Move U.N.

Mr. Khrushchev mentioned his confinement to Manhattan Island as being incompatible with the aims of the United Nations and suggested that the location of the organization should be moved to some neutral country, such as Switzerland or Austria.

"Even Soviet Russia," Khrushchev said, "would see to it that the delegates received as much freedom as they would want—were the United Nations located in Moscow."

Much of the world would find a strong appeal in the statement, according to Professor Ludden who says, "It is most unfortunate that the government of the United States made such a petty move as imposing extraordinary restrictions on Khrushchev and representatives of certain other governments attending the current United Nations session."

Confining Order

"Our action was unbecoming of a great power and a country that is permanent host to the United Nations," Professor Ludden said.

He said that communism, "insofar as it would threaten the existence of other countries or prevent their achievement of peaceful objectives" is opposed by the United Nations which, in this role, is "both an idea and a method of organizing the forces of the free world for their own protection."

Dean Kayser sees as the future of the United Nations an increase in its importance as an administrator of aid and development. Professor Ludden forecasts one of its primary functions as serving as a funnel for aid without attached political strings and as "a communications link between the providers and the recipients of aid to assure that the aid operation will best serve the interests of both."

World Representation Gains In Foreign Students Society

• THE UNIVERSITY WILL be playing host again this year to a large number of foreign students.

Countries not represented last year include Hungary, Poland, Guatemala, Australia and Cuba. Most of the students are undergraduates according to Manoucher Ardalan, president of the International Students' society. Many have been in this country only one or two years.

There is still a language problem for some. The University is seeking to advise these students and enable them to integrate their needs and interests in a satisfactory schedule of courses.

In a recent interview Mr. Ardalan discussed the needs of the foreign students and the diversified program that the International Students' society has planned. The program will allow American students to work with foreign visitors in cultural exchanges.

New Projects

Three new projects have been planned by the society. The first is a series of panel discussions with various foreign students exchanging information on the culture, social organization and educational facilities of their respective countries. Also three movies are being planned on Africa, Sweden or Finland, and India emphasizing the neutral position of these countries to enable participation by those students from Iron Curtain countries.

The third project is to have a holiday party around the Christmas season. Foreign girls will show the native crafts of their respective countries. This is planned as the counterpart to International Night held during the

● SATURDAY night your Auntie went to a football game and slipped tea with the fans. Auntie has an observation to make: she hasn't seen such school spirit for years. Coach (Keep-Up-The-Good-Work) Elias really had his lads spruced up for this one. He was in good spirits, in fact, everybody was in good spirits. Even that stately old couple, George and Martha, was in good spirits. As a matter of fact, Martha felt so good she decided to help our boys by tackling one of The Citadel's players. That old babe is up in years, but she was in there fighting with the best of them.

Spirits flowed all over the Washington-Lee stadium. One fan got so wrapped up in good cheer that he went down onto the field and asked the coach to put him in.

And when our boys in blue scored the clinching touchdown, one of those cute male cheerleaders did a flip. This isn't too unusual because by this time everybody was flipping. Such spirited youth! Good spirits were passed out from fan to fan.

Speaking of passing, what happened to the 90 percent pass plays our boys were to use? Auntie saw only three types of passing at the game. Spirits passing from fan to fan, fans passing from their perches, and aspiring male students passing at all female figures that happened their way.

The spirit didn't stop flowing until the wee hours of the morning when all good cheer was vanquished (along with The Citadel) and all fine G.W. students were tucked in their nice beds with visions of bowl games dancing in their heads.

Auntie had such a good time that she has decided to lead her little tea circle to William and Mary for next week's game. After all, my friends, it's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the field.

Now for some gossip: Guess who old Auntie Hester saw while she was watching G.W. play? Yes, it was past Student Council Prexy Tim Mead with Bridgette Bordotinsky. She's a corker, Timmy boy! And who was that dragging Cindy to their 50-yard-line seats? It was none other than our most respected editor of this weekly report sheet, Roger Stuart. He must have bought his Combo early to get such good seats. Editors have all the breaks. (I think maybe I'll buy one. Maybe someone will ask me to Homecoming this year.)

Yes and if it wasn't Al Baker up to his old tricks again, carrying hate signs over to The Citadel side.

Hester also wants to thank those dear boys for serenading me at half-time. Lovely show, boys, just lovely! What golden voices, angelic.

A word to the boys and girls going through or finished with or being taken or having been taken or having not yet been taken by the rush. A quote from our new President Weary when he discovered the North Pole, "Look out for the icebergs all covered with snow."

Harken, this announcement is required by my little gossip column editor. All gossip has to be heard by your Auntie by 2 pm Sunday, for that's the time this old lady takes her weekly nap.

Just thinking about my nap makes me tired, I'm not as young as I used to be, you know. Hum, nighty-night.

Sigma Chi House Freshened For Fall

● APPROACHING ITS ONE hundredth year on the university campus, Sigma Chi is completing an extensive remodeling job.

By keeping the old "G" st. location, Epsilon chapter has been able to invest $10,000, provided by the alumni house corporation, in several needed renovations, ranging from painting the outside of the house to touching up the powder room.

Workmen did the toughest jobs and the Sig brothers pitched in to complete smaller tasks. The kitchen has been re-equipped and the adjoining party room has a new acoustical ceiling with a built in stereo system.

The large oak study table in the library, the grand piano in the living room and a thick carpet accent the other new furnishings on the main floor. Upstairs, new desks and bedroom suites have been added. Fluorescent lights, a new chandelier in the main hall and coach-lamps in the doorway and party room brighten the whole house.

Dotty Williams, the chapter sweetheart, and Lucy Sullivan, wife of Sig Mike Sullivan, planned and decorated the ladies' room.

The fraternity had the assistance of Mrs. Roy De Vecchio, an interior decorator and mother of one of the brothers, who planned the color schemes, floral arrangements and decorations.

THE PLEDGE YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

Today's column is directed at those young female undergraduates who have recently pledged sororities and are worried, poor lambs, that they won't make good. Following is a list of simple instructions which, if faithfully observed, will positively guarantee that you will be a mad success as a sorority girl.

First, let us take up the matter of housemothers. The housemother is your friend, your guide, your mentor. You must treat her with respect. When you wish to speak to her, address her as "Mother Sigafos" or "Ma'am." In no circumstances must you say, "Hey, fat lady."

Second, let us discuss laundry. Never hang your wash on the front porch of the sorority house. This is unsightly and shows a want of breeding. Use the Chapter Room.

Third, meals. Always remember that planning and preparing meals for a houseful of healthy girls is no simple task. Your cook goes to a great deal of trouble to make your menu varied and nourishing. The least you can do is show your appreciation. Don't just devour your food; praise it. Exclaim with delight, "What delicious pork jowls!" or "What a yummy soup bone!" or "What scrumptious fish heads!" or "What clear water!"

Fourth, clothing. Never forget that your appearance reflects not just on yourself but on the whole house. It was well enough before you joined a sorority to lounge around campus in your old middy blouse and gym bloomers, but now you must take great pains to dress in a manner which excites admiring comments from all who observe you. A few years ago, for example, there was a Chi Omega named Camille Ataturk at the University of Iowa who brought gobs of glory to all her sorors. Camille hit on the ingenious notion of suiting her garb to the class she was attending. For instance, to English Lit she wore a buskin and jerkin. To German she wore lederhosen and carried a stein of pilsener. To Econ she wore 120 yards of ticker tape. Her shiningest hour came one day when she dressed as a white mouse for Psych Lab. Not only her Chi Omega sisters, but the entire student body went into deep mourning when she was killed by the janitor's cat.

Finally, let us take up the most important topic of all. I refer, of course, to dating.

As we have seen, the way you dress reflects on your sorority, but the men you date reflect even more. Be absolutely certain that your date is an acceptable fellow. Don't beat about the bush; ask him point-blank, "Are you an acceptable fellow?" Unless he replies, "Yeah, hey," send him packing.

But don't just take his word that he is acceptable. Inspect him closely. Are his fingernails clean? Is his black leather jacket freshly oiled? Is his ukelele in tune? Does he carry public liability insurance? And, most significant of all, does he smoke Marlboros?

If he's a Marlboro man, you know he has taste and discernment, wit and wisdom, character and sapience, decency and warmth, presence and poise, talent and grit, filter and flavor, soft pack and flip-top box. You will be proud of him, your sorority will be proud of him, the makers of Marlboro will be proud of him, and I will be paid for this column.

Elias Praises Both Team And Rooters

by Jeff Young

• "WE HAVE TURNED the corner and we're going to keep going up," said Coach Bill Elias, after Saturday's comeback win over The Citadel.

"Confidence was our biggest reward from Saturday's ball game. We now have a team that knows it can win.

"The boys showed themselves that they have the ability," he said, "And they also have a lot more confidence in us as coaches too. They now believe that we know what we're doing, and they respond immediately without giving our opponents the advantage of a split-second head start."

The soft-spoken mentor stated, "The student body was another big factor in our victory. When it appeared that we might not win, the fans stood behind us, and we could almost feel them pushing us along."

Fans Inspire

"The yelling from the stands certainly helped to pick us up when we were down. The desire to win, seemed to spread from the stands to the turf," he said, "and it actually felt as if we were being pushed by the 5,000 victory-hungry GW rooters."

"I understand that it is the first time in many years that a GW quarterback had to plead for silence from his own fans so that the team could hear him call the signals.

"I think we'll have a winning ball club this year," said the coach with determination, and within a few seasons the conference crown may very well be taken by our team.

Larger Fresh Squad

"We have a good freshman team this year," he said. There are 30 percent more athletes on the frosh squad than last fall.

"I've found it easy to interest high school graduates in GW. The advantages of being in the nation's capital far outweigh the lack of a few feet of grass. I sincerely feel that the educational facilities are better here than in any other school south of the University of Pennsylvania," Elias continued.

"Since GW has so much to offer, I feel that recruiting new ball players will be easy and very shortly GW will have a team of which we can all be proud."

IFC Action

TEP, Mr. May said, "Probation will not 'kill them' but we do believe that it will hurt them. This is our intention.

"TEP in violating these rush rules was hurting the other fraternities and the fraternity system," he said, "and could have easily been the cause of another fraternity folding through the use of such illegal tactics."

To Mr. Capp's belief that one obvious offense is no more serious than another, Mr. Mays answered that while the other offenses considered by the council were obvious, the TEP party involved a great deal more "time, money and manpower," than the others and was more blatant for that reason.

Necessary Restrictions

Therefore, Mr. Mays said, "It was necessary to restrict the rushing privileges of TEP by extending the period of social probation into their rushing period" and to give rushers who attended their party an equal chance to look at the other fraternities.

He asked the Student Life Committee to "uphold the IFC penalty in its entirety."

The Committee went behind closed doors to deliberate and reappeared with an amended ruling. This one lifted the ban against open house rush parties against TEP during the rush period, but ordered the fraternity to pledge no more than ten men.

But Mr. Capp appealed to the Student Life Committee again. This penalty, he felt, was even more severe than the IFC punishment, so he asked the Committee to replace its ruling with the original IFC proposal. The Committee honored the request.

Tassels Honors 54 Women For Grades And Activities

• TASSELS, THE sophomore women's honorary, sponsored by Mortar Board, tapped 54 women last week at Tips 'n Tea with Topnotchers.

The following women fulfilled the requirement of high scholarship and active participation in campus organizations:

Alice Anne Ainslie, Barbara Baker, Marilyn Band, Jane E. Bayol, Sandra Bergman, Sandra Boorstein, Elaine Borko, Gisela Caldwell, Shirley Carpenter, Jody Combs, Susan B. DiFilippo, Joyce Ellis, and Barbara Englander.

Also: Rita J. Ferrara, Anne Garfield, Ellen Garfield, Nancy George, Elaine Gertler, Sharon

Glenn, Arlene Glugatch, Nancy Haines, Sophia Kaminski, Majorie Killian, Julie Martineau, Lynn McChesney, Jeanette Murphy, Carolyn Newell, Linda Nusbaum, Carol Nyquist, Ellyn Olefsky, Stephanie Patchen, Patricia Pritchard, Helen Raab, Dorothy Rosenfeld, and Faye Rubin.

Others tapped were Sandra Servator, Linda Silverberg, Gilda Simon, Alberta Slaven, Carlyn Sundberg, Freda Sussman, Elaine Tanenbaum, Ann Thompson, Gail Trebow, Beverly Vail, Thi' Mai Vu, Janice Wald, Judith Wallington, Eng Wang, Ann Ware, Hiroko Watanabe, Elizabeth Wells, Beth Weyman, and Melinda Young.

to any activities not specifically under the direction of the Student Council. Most organizations will continue to go to the Business Office for approval to prevent cluttering the bulletin boards with useless materials.

Should any questions over the realm of jurisdiction arise, the Student Life Committee will arbitrate the dispute.

Power of Removal

The Council also resolved that it has the power to remove any publicity which it considers harmful to or conflicts with approved publicity.

Under other business the Council approved the new political party's petition for probationary recognition. Within three months the organization must present a constitution, an advisor and a list of members for the Council's approval.

Stanley Remsburg was appointed co-chairman of the Student Book Exchange.

Political Poll

The Council introduced a plan for conducting a poll of student opinion in the coming national election. Bart Crivella and Alan May were named as co-chairmen of a committee to work on the poll.

In an executive session the Council reduced the price of the Cherry Tree by 25 cents, bringing it down to $6.35.

Spirited Buff Stages Rally, Overtakes Bulldogs, 19-14

by Dave Segal

• THE COLONIALS CAME THROUGH!!

A spirited Buff contingent bounced back from a 14-12 deficit late in the fourth quarter to march 61 yards for a touchdown and a 19-14 victory over The Citadel and give Coach Bill Elias his first win at GW.

This was the game that the Buff used its running attack to perfection. The Colonials picked up 325 yards on the ground compared to The Citadel's 26, and notched 19 first downs to only six for the Bulldogs.

The Colonials marched 72 yards for a touchdown the first time they got their hands on the ball. With Bill Hardy at the helm, GW varied the offensive with consistent success. John Wilt, Tony Fredecine, John Caracciolo, Tom Haly and Lou DeSimone ripped through The Citadel line for large yardage. Fullback Wilt capped the drive as he plunged over from the one. Warren Corbin missed the conversion.

Second TD

The Colonials drove 35 yards for their second TD of the first half following a weak Bulldog punt. DeSimone broke through the middle for a 15 yard pickup only to have it called back because of an offside infraction. On the next play DeSimone promptly took the handoff and slashed through the same hole—this time for 20 yards and a first down.

A few plays later, QB Chuck Packan ran the option play around right end and scampered the remaining eight yards to paydirt. Once again the conversion attempt failed. The half ended with GW on the long end of a 12-0 score.

The GW defense stood out in the first half. The Bulldogs tried repeatedly to crash the middle, but were smothered by the Colonial line. Citadel tried next to skirt the ends, but were smeared by the Colonials' defensive ends and line-backers who refused to budge.

QB Jerry Nettles tried to get the Bulldogs moving in the air, but he was consistently rushed, so that when he did manage to get his passes away they were usually off the mark. More often than not, Nettles was forced to eat the ball as the Colonials penetrated Nettles' protection to throw him for losses.

For the first half, The Citadel was thrown for a minus 12 yards rushing. In fact, the Bulldogs did not get a first down until the fourth period. The Citadel advanced more by virtue of penalties called against the Colonials than they did on their running attack.

In The Air

The Citadel finally came to life in the fourth quarter. Nettles took to the air again and began connecting. Halfback Tommy Edwards hauled in a Nettles aerial and raced to the GW 15. Nettles faded back again and lobbed a perfect pass to HB Early Eastburn who had slipped between his defensive man and the sideline for the first Bulldog score. Bill Gilgo converted to bring The Citadel within five markers of the Buff.

The Colonials couldn't advance after the kickoff and were forced to punt. Nettles' arm flashed again for another TD. Edwards was on the receiving end of a jump-pass at the GW 40 and sped through the Buff defense to put The Citadel into the lead. Gilgo converted and the Colonials were down by two.

Coach Elias sent his offensive unit back into the game to receive the kickoff with only six minutes remaining. It was obvious that this would be the Colonials' last shot at a victory. The desire to win was high, both in the players on the field and the GW rooters in the stands. This was it and the Buff rose to the challenge.

Alex Sokaris took the short kickoff and returned to the GW 35. The Colonials moved downfield in a series of line plunges. The Buff used one play eight times in a row. On this play the halfback took the handoff and drove off right tackle.

"After we used the play three times, we had them thinking we'd never use it again," Coach Elias said. "After the fifth time they would have bet a thousand dollars that the next play was going to be a pass to the opposite side. We kept running that play, they kept looking for something else, and we kept gaining yardage."

The Colonials did pass once, a rollout to the same right side and Hardy connected with Caracciolo inside the five. Wilt drove to the two. Fredecine climaxed the 61-yard march as he ground out the final two yards to paydirt. Corbin converted, putting the Buff back in the lead, 19-14.

The Citadel tried to salvage the game in the two minutes remaining. Nettles again took to the air but this time Fredecine picked off an aerial and for all intents and purposes, that was the ball game. The Buff ran out the clock to notch its first season and conference victory.

• PRIOR TO THE beginning of the 1960-61 Intramural program, a recap of the various events which took place during the past year is in order.

The first of the major sports in the Intramural program is touch football. The teams are broken up into four leagues, kets by Dennis Hill of the Hawks. In the overtime, the Hawks outscored their opponents 11-8. Fuller wound up with 12 points for the winners and Anzelmi hit for 22 for the losers. In the other playoff game Delta Tau Delta, led by Bill Smythe and Ed Hino with nine points apiece, scored a 33-29 win over SAE. Jerry Power led SAE with 7 points. In basketball the standings read:

1. Hawks
2. Delta Tau Delta
3. Sigma Chi

During the spring, the two major sports are softball and track. In softball Sigma Chi, AEPI and Delta Theta Phi wound up on top of their respective leagues. Sigma Chi beat Delta Theta Phi, but due to the lack of time weren't able to play AEPI for the final championship. This game will be played in the near future with the winner capturing the softball trophy.

Last year's track meet, held at Western High School, proved to be the most exciting in past years. The meet seemed very close until the field events, when SAE pulled away from Sigma Chi and won a 96-64 victory. Rudy of SAE won both the shotput and discus events. Ted Alexander took the high jump with a leap of 6'1". Another outstanding event of the meet was Chuck Packan's leap of 18'10" in the board jump, which beat all competition by more than a foot.

1. Sigma Chi
2. Alpha Epsilon Pi
3. Delta Tau Delta

Following touch football, in the list of major sports, comes basketball, which runs from late December to early March. Here also, there are two A leagues and two B leagues. In the A1 League Sigma Chi and the Moonlighters took top honors, with Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Tau Delta leading the A2 League. In the playoffs the Hawks outlasted the Chimes in a 52-49 overtime win. The score was tied 41-41 at the end of regulation time on two quick bas-

Diversified Offense Boosts Buff Threat

by Ron Goldwyn

• A LOOK AT past performance charts for the last two years wouldn't show it, but George Washington goes into this Saturday's game against William and Mary with a decided advantage:

William and Mary doesn't have any idea what kind of offense GW will be using.

"Last week we passed for 200 yards against Florida, and this week we ran for 300 yards against The Citadel, so just let William and Mary figure out what we'll be doing," said Colonial Coach Bill Elias after Saturday night's 19-14 upset over the Citadel.

Elias, who boldly predicted his team's victory Saturday night in a complete reversal of the usual coaches' sob story, foresees another win for the Buff in Saturday's contest, which is slated for 2 p.m. in Cary Stadium, Williamsburg, Va.

The graying first year coach is giving the Indians a hint concerning his strategy, however. He reports that sophomore Frank Pazzaglia, who sat out Saturday night's game while recovering from a knee injury, will be ready to go against William and Mary.

Pazzaglia Back

Pazzaglia, from Peckville, Pa., is rated the Colonials' best throwing quarterback, and his recovery heralds the probable return of GW's much-publicized passing game.

With Bill Hardy and Charlie Packan directing the team, the Colonials showed William and Mary scouts that their backfield was full of powerful running backs, as five different men gained at least 39 yards rushing, and all 19 of its first downs were made on the ground.

On paper, William and Mary should be favored: Last year, the Indians defeated GW 14-7 and won four games on the season, compared to one for the Colonials. Thus far in 1966, both are 1-1.

William and Mary has displayed a powerful offense, scoring nine touchdowns while losing to Virginia Military Institute 35-21 and routing Virginia 41-21 this year. "But they won't score 41 points against us," said Elias. "Florida only scored 30."

In H. C. Thaxton, GW will have to contend with one of the finest running backs in the conference. The 200-pound blockbusting fullback moved up to a starting berth as a sophomore at the end of last season, averaging 3.6 yards per carry while gaining 197 yards for the season.

Junior Danny Barton, who beat out last year's starting quarterback Calvin Cox, will be at the helm of the Indians. Barton was the star in Saturday's convincing win over Virginia, setting up two touchdowns, scoring one himself and passing for another. The 6-foot-1, 185-pounder was William and Mary's leading ground gainer, picking up 156 yards in 13 carries. On top of everything else, he kicked three extra points, passed for another two-point conversion, and handled all the punting.

Tie For Lead

Saturday's win lifts the Buff into a tie for the Southern Conference lead, with Virginia Tech and VMI, all with 1-0 league records. Although Elias doesn't pretend to have a club capable of challenging for the conference title this year, a victory in the Colonials' second league encounter would practically assure of at least an even split in its six conference games.

It was apparent that the Colonials were fired up for The Citadel, and although Elias admits he won't be able to get his team "up" for every game, he says the coaching staff is pointing for certain games, especially Richmond at homecoming, and West Virginia in the season's final.

... VICTORY CHEER: The entire Colonial team surrounds Coach Bill Elias after presenting him with his first victory at GW. The Buff wanted to win very much and the squad's elation is evident.
